THE PREFACE.

Here was neuer any thing by the wit of man fo well deuiled, og to furely ettablished, which (in continuace of time) hath not been cogrupted : as (emong other thinges) it may plainly appete by the common page ers in the C burke, commonly called diumeternice : the fulle originall and grounde whereof, if a manne woulde fearche out by the auncient fathers, he shall finde that the lame was not ordeyned, but of a good purpole, and for a great aduauncement of godlines : for they to ordred the matter, that all the whole Bible (or the greatest parte thereof) theuld be read oner oncein the yeare, intendyng thereby, that the Clearoie, and specially lucheas were Ministers of the congregation, thould (by often readying and meditacion of Gods worde) be firred by to godlines them= felies, and be moreable also to erhorte other by wholfome doctring, and to confute them that were aduerfaries to the trueth . Ind further, that the people (by daily hearing of boly scripture readin the Churche) thould continuallye profite more and more in the knowlege of God, and beethe more inflamed with the loue of his true religion . But their many yeares palled this Godly and decent ordre of the auncient fathers, bath bee fo altered, broken, and nealected, by planting in breertein flories, Legedes, Respondes. Herses, baine repeticions, Commemoracieus and Syno, Dalles, that commonly when any beke of the Bible was begon : before three or foure Chapiters were read out, all the reft were buread. And in this fortesthe boke of Efaie was begon in Aduent, and the booke of Ges nelis in Septuaciana: but they were oncly begon, and neuer read thos rew. After a like forte wer other bokes of holy feripture bied. And more: ouer, whereas f. Paule would have such anguage spoken to the people in the churche, as they mighte buder flande and have profite by hearyng the fame: the fernice in this Churche of England (the femany yeares) hath been read in Latin to the people, which ethey buderfloode uot , fo that they have heard with they eares onely: a their hartes, spirite and minde, hauenot been edified thereby. Ind furthermoze, notwithftandyna that the auncient fathers had denided the plaimes into leven porcions: wher= of enery one was called a nocturne: now of late tyme a fewe of them have been dailye layed (and ofterepeated) and the reft beterly omitted. These inconveniences therfore confidered: here is set furth such an ordre, whereby thesame that be redressed. And for a readines in this mate ter, here is drawen out a Balendar for that purpole, which is plaine and easy to be understanded, wherin (so much as mais be) the readyng of hos ly scripture is so set furthe, that all thynges thall be doen in ordre, with so it. out

Dear Brethren of the Clergy and Laity:

It will be generally agreed that the high point in the year for our Diocesan family is the meeting of our Annual Convention.

Bishop Gilbert

This great gathering of our Annual Convention. This great gathering of the clergy and lay delegates from all our parishes and missions is an impressive demonstration, not only of the numerical strength of our Diocese, but of the unity of purpose and the common concern that is ours in the task and mission of the Church we love. We are made to feel that we belong to something bigger than the local congregation with which we worship—that there are much larger interests and responsibilities in which we must share.

I wish that all our people could recognize that fact and its implication. Ours is a democratic church. It is the members of each congregation that elect the Vestry or the Advisory Board which manages the affairs of the parish or mission. They in turn choose the delegates to the Convention of the Diocese. So the action taken and the decisions made by that Convention are in a very real sense our own. What they do is done in our name and by the authority we have entrusted to them.

When our Convention, therefore, formally approves an amount to be raised by the Diocese for the National Council in its world field or for the work of our own diocesan organizations, or formally commends the Cornerstone Campaign in which we are engaged, their action becomes binding upon us all. We are all under obligation to do our full part in fulfilling the undertakings to which our representatives have committed us.

I have always been reluctant to stress the place which sacrificial giving should have in our spiritual discipline. There may be other more important considerations. But the fact stands that God measures the value we place upon our Church and the precious privileges it provides in terms of what we are willing to invest in them.

May God help us all to understand that it is our lives in terms of our earning capacity, of our material support, as well as in terms of prayerful and upright living, that our Church must have if it is to discharge the mission He has committed to it.

Church's "Highest" Budget Goes Before General Convention

The largest budget in the history of the Church, $5,552,095, will be submitted for approval or alteration to General Convention which will open its sessions on Monday, September 26 in San Francisco and is expected to adjourn on Friday, October 7th. The amount requested by the National Council is $1,902,095 greater than its budget for 1949.

There are two houses of General Convention, the House of Bishops, including about 160 Bishops, and the House of Deputies, including 648 presbyters and communicant laymen equally divided. Every Diocese is entitled to four clerical and four lay deputies.

The following deputies were elected from this Diocese at the Diocesan Convention on May 10th:

> Rev. R. H. Brooks, D.D. Rev. F. S. Fleming, D.D. Rev. L. W. Pitt, D.D. Rev. G. P. T. Sargent, D.D. Rear Admiral R. R. Belknap C. P. Morebouse C. G. Proffitt Samuel Thorne

Of vital interest to every Diocese is the adoption of a program and budget for the years 1950, 1951 and 1952. The National Council, which is the operating agency of the Convention, submits a program to the Convention and a budget of appropriations to finance it. It also must submit a plan of apportionment to the several Dioceses of the sum needed to execute the program.

Each Diocese, when it has been advised of its share in this budget, must add to that its own missionary budget and then apportion the total among all parishes and missions in the Diocese. This amount apportioned to each parish and mission is commonly called the "quota" or "missionary quota" or "program of the church quota." It then becomes the obligation of each parish and (Continued on Page 8)

Bishop to Ordain 11 Trinity Sunday

Three deacons will be advanced to the priesthood and eight candidates for Holy Orders will be ordered deacon by the Bishop on Trinity Sunday, June 12, at the Cathedral.

The men to be advanced are the Rev. Irving Anthony, a former New York City school teacher, who will be an assistant minister at St. Philip's, Manhattan; the Rev. James C. Healey, Ph.D., who will continue to serve the Seamen's Church Institute; and the Rev. Roy E. Sommers who served his diaconate at All Saints', Beverly Hills, California. The ordinand expects to do missionary work in Alaska.

The candidates to be ordered deacon are Howard O. Bingley, Harold D. Chase, John C. Francis, Ernest E. Gayle, Paul Moore, Edwin W. Nies, William J. Potter and Robert M. Stevenson, Ph.D.

Mr. Gayle served the African Orthodox Church for 15 years as an ordained minister in charge of a congregation. He will be attached to the staff of St. Martin's, Manhattan, and will continue in St. George's, his present congregation of 150 persons, who will be brought into the Church with him. The building they now occupy will become a chapel of St. Martin's.

Missionary Offering Of Church Schools Presented May 21st

The Annual Service for the Presentation of the Children's Missionary Offerings was held in the Cathedral on Saturday, May 21, at two o'clock. The total offering on the books of the Treasurer of the Diocese at the time of the service was $35,977.26.

Vested choirs of children and young people from many of the parishes and missions of the diocese took part in the procession. They marched around the Cathedral Close where they were reviewed by the Bishop and other of the Clergy, then proceeded up Amsterdam Avenue to the front entrance of the Cathedral. About 1,000 choristers were in line. The Clergy and Bishop Gilbert followed the choirs into the Cathedral. The boys of the Cathedral Choir School were in the Chancel and the other choirs took their places in the Crossing.

Bishop Gilbert made the address to the congregation, estimated at about three thousand.

According to the Sunday School reports, filed with the Board of Religious Education before the service, there were 8 schools whose individual offerings were between $500 and $1,000:

Cornerstone Drive Takes Spurt Ahead

Considerable impetus was given to the "Cornerstone" Campaign by the Bishop's reference to it in his Convention address. After he had expressed his disappointment over the results up to that time, the Rev. John M. Mulligan, rector of All Angels' Church, Manhattan, urged the Convention to get behind the Bishop and the campaign and the Convention unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"WHEREAS The Board of Managers of the Diocesan Missionary and Church Extension Society has instituted a campaign to raise a fund of $150,000. to provide more appropriate and adequate buildings for seven of our rapidly growing Missions, and

WHEREAS: The united support of the Diocese will be necessary to insure the success of the campaign now under way, and

WHEREAS: The Bishop has expressed the wish that this undertaking might have the endorsement of the Convention, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED: That this Convention earnestly commends this campaign to the people of the Diocese and pledges its whole-hearted cooperation in securing the amount needed."

As we go to press $50,000 in cash is in the hands of the Diocesan Missionary and Church Extension Society. Another $25,000. is expected to be in hand within a few weeks so that it appears certain one-half of the goal of $150,000 is assured. To date only 60% of the parishes and missions have made remittances though many of those who have not remitted are known to have been actively soliciting gifts.

Every effort is being made to have the campaign completed before summer so that construction can be finished by fall.

To quote the Bishop in his message to the Convention:

"I wish you could know the shocking conditions under which some of these congregations are now carrying on their work — some of them in the overcrowded cellars of incomplete buildings that were started years ago. One of them, a rapidly growing new mission, tries to crowd its people into the ante-room of the ladies' washroom in the basement of a police station. These things are no credit to the Church we love or to the Diocese of which they are a part. This campaign has had amazingly

This campaign has had amazingly wide publicity through the secular press and in all our national Church papers. Our Church throughout the country, and other Churches also, are now watching to see what is going to happen in the Diocese of New York."

Last week one of the leading picture magazines asked for an opportunity to cover the construction of the seven buildings which are to be built and the office of the Diocesan Missionary and Church Extension Society is still being besieged with requests for plans from churches all over the United States. Interest has been so great that the designers of the pre-engineered buildings have had to resort to printing literature to reply to the many inquiries referred to them.

Readers of the BULLETIN are urged to make their gifts to the campaign through their parishes, and to enlist the support of their friends.

The Necessary Canonical Sto Bishop's Request for a Coad

Convention Created Body Now Receiving Names of Persons to be Considered

When the Diocesan Convention on May 10th consented to the election of a Bishop Coadjutor for this Diocese, an intricate chain of events was set in motion. There may be only one Bishop Coadjutor in a Diocese and there may be no election of a Coadjutor without the consent of the Bishop of the Diocese. The Canon of the General Convention states that "when a Bishop of a Diocese is unable, by reason of age, or other permanent cause of infirmity, or by reason of the extent of Diocesan work, fully to discharge the duties of his office, a Bishop Coadjutor may be elected by and for said Diocese, who shall have right of succession."

The canon then states that before an election can be held "for the reason of the extent of Diocesan work," the General Convention must give its consent, or if it is not in session, then consent must be given by a majority of the Bishops and of the Standing Committees of the Dioceses which comprise the Church in the United States.

The duty to secure these consents now falls on the Standing Committee of this Diocese which is composed of

Rev. R. H. Brooks, D.D. Rev. L. W. Pitt, D.D. Rev. J. H. R. Ray, D.D. Rev. S. M. Shoemaker, D.D. G. F. Butterworth M. B. Candler C. G. Michalis C. P. Morehouse

When the necessary consents have been received, a date for the adjourned meeting of the Convention will be set, and at that meeting the Bishop will call for the election of a Coadjutor and will also state the duties which he will assign to him. The date has been set tentatively for October 25. Under a resolution adopted at the 1949 Convention a new committee has been established to present nominations for the office of Bishop, Bishop Coadjutor or Suffragan Bishop as the case may be. This committee consists of the Chancellor, the Chairman, Mr. Butterworth, the members of the Standing Committee above named, the deans of the seven convocations, the Rev. Messrs Alexander A. Frier, Richmond; Louis W. Pitt, Manhattan; F. G. Garten, Bronx; L. E. May, III, Westchester; Gordon Kidd, Dutchess; F. L. Carruthers, Hudson; and George W. Dumbell, Ramapo, and such other persons as the committee may elect to its membership.

This committee will consider names suggested to it and may itself propose names and will mail a report of its recommendations to each parish and mission at least 30 days before the Convention and to all delegates not less than two weeks prior to the Convention. This report will include a biographical sketch of the person or persons to be nominated. Other nominations may be made from the floor of the Convention. A nominee for the office of Bishop Coadjutor may be a Suffragan Bishop or a duly ordained priest of the Church.

The last Bishop Coadjutor of this Diocese was the Right Rev. David H. Greer who was elected at the Diocesan Convention of 1903. He succeeded Bishop Henry Codman Potter as Diocesan in 1908.

Church's Highest Budget Goes

Before General Convention

The budget of the National Council for 1949 was $3,650,000 and of this amount $350,041 was apportioned to ps to Meet the utor Outlined this Diocese. It is estimated that our parishes and missions will fail to meet this apportionment by nearly $150,000. Because General Convention is held so close to the time that most parishes use to raise their share of the budget, the National Council has already advised each Diocese as to the nature of its proposed recommendation to General Convention.

If this plan is adopted, the apportionment for this Diocese to be raised in the Every Member Canvass this Fall will be $349,894. An additional sum must also be raised in the Spring.

The Diocesan Committee on Quota and Allocation of Missionary Funds will soon make its recommendations to the Committee on Diocesan Finances and then parish and mission quotas will be assigned. Diocesan appropriations for 1949 were as follows:

Diocesan Missionary and
Church Extension Society	$73,000
Board of Religious Education	11,600
Commission on Christian Social
Relations	10,000
Church Periodical Club	1,600
Girls' Friendly Society	3,000
Youth Consultation Service	15,000
City Mission Society	36,900
Seamen's Church Institute	7,500
Financial Administration	3,000
Promotion	9,500

The promotion department of the Diocese which is called The Committee on the Program of the Church, expects to work through Convocation committees of laymen in the seven convocations of the Diocese to inform every member of the Church of the Church's program in the Diocese and throughout the world. These committees will urge every parish to conduct a thorough Every Member Canvass so that every member of the Church will have an opportunity to give. A gift of 15c per week by every communicant member of the Church in this Diocese would raise the full sum required, including the amount to be raised next spring.

BULLETIN Maps Subscription Drive on Basis of Study of Circulation by Places

At the June meeting of the Editorial Board of the BULLETIN, a new plan to increase subscriptions was authorized. Convocation circulation managers are to be appointed in order to promote the . magazine. The Rev. James C. Crosson, a member of the board, agreed to act as circulation manager for Westchester.

The plan grew out of consideration by the board of a breakdown of circulation figures by locality. The report, which used the figures on communicant strength as given in the 1949 Living Church Annual, is as follows:

A First Diocesan Auxiliary Meeting Bears Good Fruit

Five months ago a young woman attended her first diocesan meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, and from that inspiration, St. Luke's Hospital, Tokyo, will receive this month 300 nurses' uniforms, together with Ivory soap, safety pins, and sewing materials requested with each garment.

At the January Auxiliary meeting she was moved by an appeal for used nurses uniforms for the hospital. She immediately approached the nurses of three Manhattan hospitals. The superintendent of nurses of one of the hospitals was a member of her parish, St. Stephen's, Manhattan, and became interested. Posters were put up and other women of the parish offered to collect and repair the uniforms.

"The vision caught by this one woman has brought to a group of Japanese women the reality of the interest that Christian women in America feel for them," said Mrs. James S. McCulloh, diocesan president of the Auxiliary.

Anniversary of Prayer Book is Celebrated

The Four Hundredth Anniversary of the issuance of the first Prayer Book in English was generally observed by most of the parishes and mission churches throughout the Diocese on Whitsunday, when the 1549 forms of service were used, having been authorized by the Bishop for use on that day or some other one day convenient. Simplified reprints of the Order of Holy Communion, Matins, and Evensong were made available for all those who cared to use them. Over fifteen thousand were applied for in the Diocese of New York.

To quote the Bishop: "In this Diocese we are seeking to remind ourselves, with grateful and understanding hearts, of all that God wrought for us through Archbishop Cranmer, in enabling us to worship God in our own language. That is the thing of supreme significance in this anniversary.

"There have been many revisions since, but, as has been pointed out, that first English Prayer Book of 1549 stands as the parent Book of all the Anglican Prayer Books and provided for us the • precious possession that is ours in our American Book of Common Prayer."

At the Cathedral the special Diocesan service heard the Rev. James A. Pike, J.S.D., chaplain-elect of Columbia University say, "Lex orandi est lex credendi, i.e. people believe as they pray. The Prayer Book defines the shape of Anglican belief. It expresses the faith of a Church that is both Catholic and Reformed. And what the Prayer Book demands primarily is wholeness."

The Rev. Father Joseph, Superior of the Order of the Poor Brethren of St. Francis, speaking at that service, said, "It thus holds before us the doctrine, discipline and worship which proceeds from Christ, not as an Anglican invention, but as a matter ordered by the whole Church of God, the pillar and ground of the truth."

Pioneer Spirit Returns to Give

Church Property a Refurbishing

The property of Holy Comforter, Eltingville, S. I., came in for a going over last month when, in a manner suggesting old-time backwoods community effort, some forty men, women and young people of the parish came together to trim hedges, reshingle bare spots in church and parish house roofs, wash windows, launder curtains, replace sash cords, police closets, and rake lawns.

Two cellars were cleared of rubbish and the stage in the parish house was jacked up for the pouring of concrete footings. A non-member loaned the jacks and also pitched in to work.

New Parish House Is Half Completed

St. Stephen's Church, Armonk, completed the first half of its parish house building program by the end of April. The Reverend Harold B. Thelin, rector, reports that in its semi-completed state the building will be useable, and that the completion will be carried forward as quickly as money is received.

Since the start of the campaign in April 1948, a total of $10,316.50 has been received in cash and pledges. Of this amount, $8,349.25 has been expended to date in construction.

The structure will be fully inclosed and weather-proofed, and will provide a room 38 ft. by 26 ft. upstairs and a second room of similar dimensions downstairs, with space available for the development of a kitchen, sacristy, choir locker rooms, a small stage and proper lavatory facilities. The exterior will flaunt black felt paper until it can be properly covered with clap-boards. The immediate aim is to find enough money to insure heating and plumbing facilities before the cold weather sets in this fall, said the rector.

Henry Winterling will be the chairman of the committee for the second half of the fund drive.

- A glorious church awaits the consummation-
- When all on earth shall join in one accord
- With those who kept the faith throughout the ages,
- Triumphant in the risen and ascended Lord!
