

O LORD, Whose way is perfect, help us, we pray Thee, always to trust in Thy goodness, that, walking with Thee and following Thee in all simplicity, we may possess quiet and contented minds, and may cast all our care on Thee, for Thou carest for us, for the sake of Jesus Christ our Lord.

AMEN.

The Bishop's Message

Jesus Christ Is Risen Today!

Alleluia!

He Is Risen!

Alleluia!

Jesus Our Lord, of Whom the centurion who saw Him die on the Cross said, "Truly this was the Son of God," the same Jesus is alive forevermore!

After Calvary one can imagine the disciples in their bewilderment asking, "If God is love as Our Master taught us, how can He have permitted the outrage of the crucifixion. Surely the world is ruled by evil for wickedness has triumphed over good."

And then on Easter Day came the incredible news that He had risen from the dead! It was said that Mary Magdalene had seen Him. It was hard to believe that she told the truth. But then He appeared also unto others individually, to one or two at a time, to many at once.

It is natural that the details of the Resurrection appearances should vary for they were passed on by word of mouth for a generation before being written down.

But of no fact are we more certain than that after the first Easter Day Our Lord's followers began to preach His Resurrection. The distressed disciples who deserted Him at the trial, became joyous worshippers and witnesses, certain that Christ has risen from the dead. Nothing could shake their unwavering faith. "Christ is Risen!" became the watchword with which they set out to win the world.

Christ is Risen! Jesus of Nazareth is alive forevermore! As in His life He conquered sin, so by the cross He conquered death. It means that goodness is immortal. The Resurrection was the triumph of righteousness, the pledge and proof that all that belongs to God endures forever.

In Christ, says St. Paul, "shall all be made alive." Through following in His steps, through fellowship with Him, in purity and goodness, in truth and the beauty of holiness, through the growth of the Christ spirit within us we become worthy of eternal life with God.

"Therefore my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

"Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through Our Lord Jesus Christ."

THE laymen of the Diocese are on the march.

They are fired with a determination to see the Church meet the challenge of these critical times. They are responding as never before to the invitation to serve offered by the Laymen's Movement.

The spark was ignited when the original sixty men met at the National Church Conference Home, Seabury House, Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 19, 1949. In two days of intensive training, these men, representing every convocation in the Diocese, heard the story of the Missionary program of the Episcopal Church. They learned about our work from Alaska to Brazil; from the Canal Zone to China; from Havana to Hawaii.

In their imagination, they rode the ranges and mountains with our priests in the Church's thirteen missionary districts of the West. They visited farms and factories with our vicars. They saw these gallant, under-paid, poorly housed clergy at first hand. They joined in the heated discussions on college campuses. They went with our chaplains to prisons and asylums.

From rescue missions of the slums to great Cathedrals, they saw our Church at work. They caught fire and went back to the parishes and missions in their neighborhoods to tell the story to the vestries that would listen to them.

They told their story well.

Parish after parish responded to their sincerity and conviction. Missionary giving increased throughout the Diocese.

But they were not content. Sixty men were too few. Double the number were needed. Every parish and mission must hear and know. The story must not only be told to vestries. Every member of the Church must hear it. They would recruit more men.

Under the sponsorship of the Diocesan Committee on the Program of the Church, fifty more men were enlisted and trained.

One hundred men gathered at the Cathedral on Oct. 1, 1950. They were briefed on the Church's expanding educational program and its widening ministry in Christian social relations. They condensed and sharpened their presentations. During the Fall and Winter, they spoke to congregations at the sermon period on Sunday mornings. They addressed parish meetings. They talked to church groups.

They criticized themselves and their efforts without mercy. They practiced. They studied. They met with the others in their congregations to suggest improvements.

The fire of their enthusiasm burned brighter than ever.

What has happened is best shown by the increase by more than fifty per cent in the missionary giving by the Diocese in the past year.

Our laymen are on the march.

Now, they plan to have in their group at least one man from every parish or mission. These new men will receive the same basic training as the rest. They will be the spark that will blaze in their own parish or mission. They will see to it that the best suggestions and ideas from laymen throughout the Church are carefully con-

We know that if we carry out our theme we must begin with ourselves. We are learning to really worship. We believe that if we are successful in interesting others we must first know well our own faith, history and essential convictions. These matters we will study with prayer and devotion. We are sure that we cannot ask others to do that which we are unwilling to do ourselves. We will open new areas of service. We will give wider, much wider, support to every phase of our parsidered by their own parish leaders. They will add their own successful activities to the growing store now being sent out to all parts of the Church by the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Laymen's Work.

This Presiding Bishop's Committee has been working since 1942. It was called together to devise effective ways to use the laity of our Church. It is now operating in every Diocese and missionary district. It collects and passes on all programs and ideas that are successful in other localities. It promotes the Annual Corporate Communion and Gift for Men and Boys scheduled the first Sunday in Advent.

But above all, it seeks to bring men to a personal commitment to Jesus Christ and His Church.

This commitment results in a realization of the necessity and privilege of sharing this experience with others. This is Evangelism. This is the theme by which we laymen work.

Diocesan 169 Convention Opens the Eighth of May

New Diocesan Makes First Convention Address

The 169th Convention of the Diocese will be held on May 8 beginning with a service of Holy Communion in the Cathedral at 8:15 a.m. with the Bishop as celebrant. Breakfast will be served to delegates after the service and the business session will begin at 10 a.m.

The Convention is the legislative body of the Church in the Diocese. It is composed of the Bishop, the Suffragan Bishop and clerical and lay members sitting and acting together in one body but voting by orders on some matters. Clerical members are the clergy canonically resident in the Diocese not less than six months prior to the meeting of the Convention and who are either settled in some parish in union with the Convention, in the Cathedral or as missionaries, chaplains, professors, instructors or who after attaining the age of sixty-five shall have retired after ten years of service in one or more of the above positions.

Lay members are male representatives of the parishes and organized missions of the Diocese. There may be three lay delegates from every parish in union with the Convention, one from every assisted parish not in union with the Convention and one from every organized mission. Lay delegates from parishes having vestries are chosen by the vestry; from parishes having no vestries, by the congregation and from missions by the advisory board. Certificates of appointment of lay delegates must be filed with the Secretary of the Convention at least three weeks prior to the meeting of the Convention.

The duties of the Secretary have developed upon the Rev. Lawrence B. Larsen, rector of Christ Church, Pelham Manor, owing to the death of the former Secretary, the Rev. R. A. D. Beaty. The acting secretary has been the assistant secretary longest of the three under appointment.

The business of the Convention begins with the election of a secretary and of a treasurer.

Each is elected for a term of one year.

R. H. Mansfield

Mr. Mansfield is an associate of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., a trustee of the Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company, and a Director of the Home Life Insurance Company and the Seamen's Bank for Savings. He is a member of the Church of St. James the Less, Scarsdale; a vestryman of Trinity Church, Manhattan; a director of the Seamen's Church Institute, a trustee of the Estate and Property of the Diocesan Convention and a member of the Finance Committee of the Diocesan Investment Trust.

After the election of these officers, the Bishop appoints members of the Committee on Incorporation and Admission of Parishes, the Committee on Diocesan Finances, the Committee on Canons, the Committee on Miscellaneous Business and other committees authorized by the canons.

It is anticipated that two congregations recently incorporated will apply to be received into union with the Convention. These are the Church of the Holy Trinity, Man., which for many years has been a chapel of St. James Parish, and St. Andrews, Hartsdale, which has been an organized mission.

There are numerous offices on the various boards, committees and commissions of the Diocese to be filled by election and appointment. Included are the Standing Committee, the Board of Managers of the Diocesan Missionary and Church Extension Society, Deputies to the Provincial Synod which meets this year in Buffalo, the Board of Religious Education, the Commission on Christian Social Relations, Commission on College Work and the Board of Examining Chaplains.

The Bishop's address is the high point of interest in meetings of Convention. This address includes a report on the affairs of the Diocese and the conduct of his office for the past year. He may also use his address to recommend action by the Convention on any matter which he feels is in the interest of the Church.

Added interest in the Bishop's address is anticipated this year as it will be Bishop Donegan's first address since he became Diocesan last fall.

The Convention uses what is known as the Hare single transferable ballot. This ballot provides that each voter indicates his preference for each person nominated by specifying his first, second, third, fourth choice, etc.

Auxiliary Holds Annual Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New York Offering and Holy Communion will be held on Tuesday, May 1st.

The Builders of Worship of God

Know Our Diocese Series

EASTER and Palm Sunday, last month throughout Christendom, epitomized man's best efforts to offer worthy worship to Almighty God, whether the eight members of St. John the Baptist at Richardsville, or the 4,062 communicants of Trinity Parish, Man.

The following two pages illustrate the many hands required to plan our most fitting offering to God at the Cathedral. The pictures are arranged in three strips and read from left to right.

The Service Is Brought Into Being

As the first step, the Bishop orders the service, the ceremonial, the personnel, the preaching, the music. The Canon Sacrist then has the responsibility to produce this service. Miss Carol Rede, the Bishop's secretary, has just finished taking notes as the conference comes to a close.

Next, the Canon Pastor of the Cathedral prepares advertisements of the service, sees that news releases are sent out (after the service as well), and is here shown as he briefs the press on some technical detail of liturgy or historical background.

Miss Margaret Murphy, at the switchboard, handles or re-routes the myriads of calls asking questions.

Mr. Henry W. Rowley, music librarian of the Cathedral Choir School, gets copies of the music.

Canon Green and Dr. Norman Coke-Jephcott, Cathedral organist, take final responsibility for producing the music. They are here at a rehearsal of the boys.

The Fabric Is Made Ready

The grounds of the Cathedral, an emerald setting in the midst of the grey-brown stone of Amsterdam Ave., is kept growing by an efficient yard crew. Left to right, Patrick Keegan, Thomas Horan (on the roller), Diego Bruno, and Theodore Niemiec, special officer who patrols the grounds.

Mrs. Rebecca Hicks launders the white vestments of the altars, acolytes and choir.

The voice of the service, the organ, must be kept tuned. Mr. Herbert Hannan, assistant headmaster of the Choir School, is making a delicate adjustment in one of the smaller pipes. The box-like structures are larger pipes and air-ducts.

The carpentry shop keeps things in repair. Left to right, Mr. George Parsons at a power-saw, Mr. Thomas Muncaster, in charge of all Cathedral work, holding some of the hundreds of keys for which he is responsible, and Mr. Phillip Sheridan.

Everything Decently and in Order

Miss Katharine Strohsahl prepares the sacred vessels before the service.

Mr. George D. Edwards, president of the Laymen's Club (left) reviews the seating plans for the Palm Sunday service with Mr. John Turner, chief of ushers.

The service is rehearsed. The two pictures show the rehearsal and, to its right, the actual Palm Sunday worship towards which all the effort had directed itself.

After the service is over, and the lights are lowered, the Cathedral's work still goes on as a place of quiet devotion and meditation for persons who wish to stop a moment in prayer.

In all, a staff of seventy-five persons work to make the services of the Cathedral possible.

Memorialize Diocesan Secretary

A service in memory of the Rev. Richard A. D. Beaty, former rector of St. Peter's, Chelsea, from May 1, 1933 until his death, Feb. 3, 1951, was held at St. Peter's, March 11, in the afternoon.

He had also served as secretary of the Diocese since 1934.

A special group of soloists sang Verdi's Requiem. The Rev. Percy L. Urban, Jr., priest-in-charge pending the election of a rector officiated.

ish program, our diocesan effort and the work of our national Church. We will set forth boldly on a plan of Christian stewardship. We will become Christian salesmen in the highest sense of the word. Every layman in the Diocese will be our prospect.

We will follow the rules laid down by our Lord. We will keep in mind the effective experiences of our own business lives. Under the guidance and leadership of our rector or vicar, we laymen will rally the men of our parish. Using skills and techniques soundly proven in the sales fields of secular business, we will present our Church to our unchurched neighbors.

We will make our parish, our diocese, our national Church strong by telling and retelling the story of the Church; by promoting an effective Every Member Canvass in our parish and mission; by uniting with fellow Churchmen in our community to present a solid front. We will widen the basis of our financial support to include all our members. We will so arrange our time to give our Church its rightful priority. These things we can and will do. This is Christian Stewardship. This is Evangelism by laymen. This is the Laymen's Movement in the Diocese of New York. We are on the March.

Call for Three Conferences To Further Fall Canvasses

Associate Field Officers Ready for New Drive

A series of three conferences of laymen has been called for April 22, May 19-20, and July 13-15 by the Diocesan Committee on the Program of the Church, looking toward a general Conference immediately after Labor Day to set up the Fall presentations to the churches of the Diocese in preparation for Every Member Canvasses.

W. Ted Gannaway, secretary of the Committee said, "The way we see it now, primary emphasis will be placed on a twenty-minute address to be given at regular Sunday morning services. Three or four suggested outlines will be provided for to fill in from the 'Fact Books' distributed last Fall. Supplementary material will be available.

"In addition," Mr. Gannaway said, "We are providing a booklet of real-life stories taken directly from every place where our missionary funds are spent. The latest statistical data will be on hand and replacement sheets for the 'Fact Book' will bring them up to date.

"To complete the Diocesan story, we will have ready for each layman on the committee a set of forty slides and a suggested script, covering the actual work of our missionaries, chaplains and services here in the Diocese."

The first meeting, April 22, 2:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., at the Cathedral House Library, will be a "Critique and Training Session on Every Member Canvass Techniques".

The session will consider various techniques and experiences of the men and then will "select and revamp the best ones, to agree on a standard set-up." Then, the men will be divided into teams of two or three each to take on assignments in parishes to which they have been invited to organize and to conduct a good canvass.

The schedule is as follows:

SATURDAY-SUNDAY, May 19-20. Seabury House, Greenwich, Conn. Basic Training Course for new Associate Field Officers.

FRIDAY-SUNDAY, July 13-15. Seabury House, Greenwich, Conn. National Council Training Course on Religious Education.

Processional Cross Dedicated

A processional cross was dedicated at St. Bartholomew's, Man., at an afternoon service on March 11, 1951. Bishop Donegan officiated at the service. The gift of Elizabeth Taylor Dunnington, the cross is of Byzantine design and was given to the glory of God and in loving memory of Waller Taylor.

Appoint H. Wynn Bussman to Head New Laymen's Movement

Mr. H. Wynn Bussman has been named Diocesan Chairman of Laymen's Work, it was announced last month by the Bishop. Representatives of each parish and mission are now being recruited to meet June 3 at the Synod Hall, Cathedral Close, for the first annual Laymen's Conference. Mr. Bussman described the work of the committee as aimed at improving the functioning of parishes and to draw more men, into the service of the Church. He said, "We seek to do for each parish what the associate field officers have been able to do for the Diocese."

H. Wynn Bussman

Mr. Bussman is associated with the A. C. Nielsen Company, market analysts of 500 Fifth Avenue, N. Y. C. He lives in Dobbs Ferry where he is a communicant of Zion.

He is an associate field officer of the Diocese.

In commenting on his assignment, W. Ted Gannaway said, "One of our most active and able laymen, Wynn brings to our work just the right combination of experience, ability and devotion to the Church that we need. It means a lot of voluntary sacrifice of time and energy to take on this job, but he is willing to tackle it.

"We, everyone of us, must give him all possible help. A million thanks, Wynn, for accepting this appointment."

G. F. S. Teen-Agers Gathering

The Girls' Friendly Society has scheduled a Teen-Age Conference on April 28, at 10:30 a.m., in Cathedral House.

Mrs. William W. Smith, executive director, said the panel participants will be "people who can tell them" about Teaching, nursing, social work, the theatre, Church compare with one 'outside'?"

"If a girl doesn't expect to work very long, don't you think she might as well take the best paying job she can get?" Mrs. Smith said.

Christian Social Relations Dinner Is Held April 10

The annual dinner of the Commission on Christian Social Relations was scheduled for April 10, at St. Bartholomew's Community House. The subject set to be discussed by the speakers at dinner was "Youth in an Insecure World."

Those scheduled to speak included Hon. Hubert T. Delany, Judge of the Children's Court, N. Y. C. — "What is Happening to our Young People?" On the same subject, Dr. A. Alfred Cohen, superintendent, N. Y. State Training School for Boys, Warwick.

Mrs. Richard G. Gould, district director, Westchester Office, Youth Consultation Service, spoke on "What Can the Church do to Help?"

The dinner, given annually, is especially for members of the Episcopal Church who are social workers in either public or private social agencies in the metropolitan area.

DIOCESAN Summer Conference is coming again this year, and happy scenes such as above at last year's conference of young people will be the order of the day. The Faculty are here showing the Seniors that they can teach them something about baseball as well as the Prayer Book.

First Parish Day School Conference is Scheduled

THE first Episcopal Parish Schools Conference of the Diocese of New York is to be held at Grace Church, New York City, on Saturday, May 19th, from 10:00 A.M. to 4:30 P.M. The Bishop of New York will set the theme for the day, speaking on "Why This Conference?"

The Rev. Theodore O. Wedel, Ph.D., Warden of the College of Preachers, Washington, D. C., will address the group on "Why the Parish School?", and the Rev. John Heuss, Jr., D.D., Director of Christian Education of the National Council, on "Secular and Sacred Curriculum."

Mr. E. Allison Grant, Headmaster of Grace School, New York City, will lead the discussion on "The Relationship Between the School and the Parish", and the Rev. John M. Mulligan, Rector of All Angels' Church, New York City, will speak on "The Need for a Common Approach".

The Rev. James A. Pike, J.S.D., Chaplain of Columbia University and Chairman of the Committee on Released Time, Day Schools, and Institutions of the Diocesan Board of Religious Education, will chair the meeting.

All clergymen of the Diocese and their key laymen as selected by the clergy, faculty members of parish schools in the Diocese, including nursery schools and kindergartens, members of the Board of Education of these schools, as well as faculty members and trustees of other Episcopal schools in the diocese will be qualified to attend.

At the present time, there are seven parish schools and six non-parish Episcopal Schools in the Diocese. In addition to these schools, ten parishes have nursery schools, meeting in Church buildings but not necessarily connected with the parish.

The committee members arranging for this conference are: the Rev. James A. Pike, J.S.D., Chairman; the Rev. John M. Mulligan; Mr. E. Allison Grant; the Rev. Albert Chambers, Rector of the Church of the Resurrection, New York City; Mrs. Reinhold Niebuhr, Executive Officer of the Department of Religion, Barnard College; and the Rev. J. Willard Yoder, Director of Religious Education and Youth Work.

BULLETIN Holding Its Own; But Still Needs Subscriptions

An analysis of the subscribers to the BULLETIN shows that with the exception of the clergy, paid subscriptions are about holding their own. Failure of the clergy to pay for their subscriptions accounts for a loss of 83 subscriptions.

In 1949 there were 3,158 paid subscribers. And in 1950, there had been a drop of 40 subscriptions to 3,118.

In general, there is better distribution of the BULLETIN than previously. In 1949, there were 43 communities that did not receive the BULLETIN. In 1950, there were only 4 communities where no one subscribed.

Diocesan Youth Convention April 15 to Elect Council

A Young Person Speaks on Youth's Objectives

BY ALMA SCHELLE

This year's Diocesan Youth Convention April 14 will tie all young people of all parishes who attend directly into the Diocesan Youth Council by direct election of two delegates-at-large to the Council.

The young people will all have the opportunity to participate directly in plans and policies for their work in the Diocese by discussion of the past year's work and making suggestions for 1951-52.

Among the items to be discussed will be the Diocesan Summer Conferences to be held at the Diocesan Youth Center, St. Peter's School, Peekskill. There will be three one-week conferences — June 24 to June 30 for boys and girls 6 to 13; July 1 to July 7 for young people 14 to 18; and July 8 to July 14 for boys and girls 6 to 13.

Last year 250 were in attendance. They gave $506 in their missionary offering, which they voted to give to the Bishop Gilbert Field House Fund.

$400 of the net profit of $402 from the 1950 Bishop's Ball was designated for the same purpose.

Plans for the 1951 Ball to be held on Friday, October 26th at Cathedral Heights will be discussed in anticipation of a gala diocesan social event and of a net profit to apply toward the $600 remaining on the young people's pledge to the Field House.

Shall there be a queen? If so, how shall she be selected? Shall there be specialty numbers? If so, by whom? Where can we get a good orchestra for a nominal rate? How will prospective patrons names be selected? These questions will receive consideration in the business session.

How can we increase the 1951 Youth Offering? The 1950 offering from the young people of the Diocese of New York was only $200. The Holy Cross Mission in Liberia has been selected by the National Youth Commission for the 1951 offering. Methods to elicit participation of all young people of all parishes in this major effort will receive attention.

Suggestions on how to improve the semi-annual Convocational Youth Meetings will be received, and the possibility of a young people's retreat will be explored.

Alma Schelle of St. Peter's Church, Westchester, and Richard Spielman of the Diocese of Long Island, both members of the National Youth Commission, will present the national program for young people, called the United Movement of the Church's Youth (U.M.C.Y.). The Youth Rule of Life has been incorporated to undergird the whole plan for youth work and study in 1951-52.

The Feast of Lights has been reinstated as a "major" with Youth Sunday, Mission Study, and the Young People's Corporate Communion being the other three.

The 1951-52 theme is to be "Continue in that Holy Fellowship".

Church Periodical Club Has Many Books to Lend

The Church Periodical Club of the Diocese wishes the clergy to be reminded that books, secular and religious, given by donors from the various parishes are available for the asking at the Periodical Club office in Cathedral House on the Close.

Also, the Periodical Club will be glad to receive for distribution, books no longer needed by the owners, and fairly recent magazines, especially Church publications.

Cathedral Canterbury Club Is Host to Diocese Clubs

On Sunday evening April 1st the Cathedral Chapter of the Canterbury Club was host to students from all over the Diocese of New York who were in New York City as delegates to a weekend diocesan student conference.

Following a candlelight supper in the Undercroft of the Synod House, the Chapter and their guests heard an address by Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, daughter and secretary to the great Russian novelist, Leo Tolstoy.

Miss Tolstoy is well-known in this country as an author, lecturer, as executive of the Tolstoy Foundation, Inc., and for her work with displaced persons, the subject of her talk.

At the service of Evening Prayer, the Rev. Samuel M. Shoemaker, D.D., rector of Calvary, Man., preached.

Sunday evening programs for college students in the City of New York are held every week in the Synod House beginning with supper at six o'clock and including speakers, Evening Prayer, and activities (social service, discussion group, drama workshop, and the student choir).

College Commission And Auxiliary Discuss Vocations of Students

The Provincial Committee on College Work and the Woman's Auxiliaries of the Dioceses of New York, New Jersey, Newark, and Long Island, sponsored a Vocational Conference for women college students at Seabury House, Conn., Mar. 9-11.

Professor Ursula Niebuhr of Barnard College addressed the group Friday evening on "Christian Vocation", and later led a period of Meditation. Saturday morning, among the secular vocations discussed were: Teaching by Miss Catherine Oakes, Department of English, Connecticut; Social Work by Miss Sophie T. Cambria, Associate Professor of Sociology, Hunter College; Job Opportunities Abroad by Miss Elaine Wiswall, Windham House; Journalism and Writing by Miss Eleanor Morse, daughter of the Rev. Donald H. Morse.

Church Vocations were presented to the group Saturday afternoon by Helen B. Turnbull, director of Windham House. In the evening a symposium on Marriage and the Home was conducted by Mrs. Vesper O. Ward of Greenwich. Throughout the conference leaders were available to the students for private conferences. Among the students attending from the Diocese of New York were: Ostrid V. Donovan, St. Philip's Church; Sadie B. Mills; Sarah Bond and Ann Strickland, Barnard College; Joyce MacDonald, Windham House; Jeanne Plowman; Molly Bruce, Laura Page, Abby Campbell, Nancy McCaslin, Diane Sharp and Mary Lou Dunbar, Vassar College. The conference was under the direction of Miss Katharine Duffield, Provincial Secretary for College Work.
